Please describe using, at a minimum, the standard descriptors for the crop (see below). Include any variance in plant description and include percent allowance for other types. Please list any disease resistance or other characteristics you feel are noteworthy. Description may also be attached to this form. Instructions: Use terminology as defined in any basic university level plant breeding textbook. Breeders shall maintain records that identify all sources of germplasm used. All pedigree and breeding methods records shall be maintained by the breeder and made available to the agency upon request. The identification of variants and/or the description of traits(s) discovered during development, or found in the finished inbred, may be required to provide evidence of stability and for identification and intellectual property right purposes.
